

LATER LIFE MEDIATION

Facilitating the Difficult Conversations

Later Life Mediators offer a confidential and cost effective service for families who need a professional third party to tackle the challenging issues associated with ageing.

Why use a professional third party?

A lot of families find it difficult to initiate and have such discussions on their own. With the best will in the world, often families fall into familiar roles when difficult decisions have to be made; one member may dominate discussions and others might have difficulty being heard - that's where Later Life Mediation can help.

We can facilitate a conversation where all voices are heard in order to obtain the best possible outcome for all concerned.

What participants say

“We had a situation that was full of opposing views and opinions. We all care about each other in our family, but things have a way of getting too personal. We needed someone to help us move forward”

“Talking makes help and support more likely to happen. It also makes the family understand what day-to-day living is like”

“Why in the name of God did it take so long to hear about this type of mediation?”

Here are just some of the issues that we can help with:

- Decisions about living arrangements
- Organising support and care at home
- Making decisions after a diagnosis of dementia.
- Handling contentious issues while in Nursing Home care
- Decisions about Financial Planning
- Planning business/farm succession
- New Partnerships/Marriages
- Issues with Step Families
- Decisions about Legal Planning, Enduring Power of Attorney and Wills
- End of Life Decisions
